

What is S.A.ID.?

The S.A.ID. (Special Needs Alert and Identification) Program is providing First Responders with the resources to identify and assist individuals with special needs who find themselves in an emergency situation.

Residents can now complete a simple information form and a S.A.ID. alert will be created in our secure communications database.

A S.A.ID. alert defines the individual's condition and/or needs to first responders prior to them arriving to an incident to improve their response, interaction, and communication with the individual.

SPECIAL NEEDS ALERT & IDENTIFICATION PROGRAM

IMPROVES RESPONSE, INTERACTION, AND COMMUNICATION

Sand Springs Police Department

Who should participate?

Individuals with a physical or mental impairment including those with an increased risk for chronic physical, developmental, behavioral, or emotional conditions that require specialized assistance to best serve their needs and provide for increased safety for the individual and First Responders.

Use of information

Enrollment in the S.A.ID. Program will establish two alerts in our secure police communications database.

1. Personal Alert

This alert is tied to the name and date of birth of the individual. It will never expire.

2. Location Alert

This alert is tied to an address. It must be updated annually to remain active.

When an officer is dispatched to a call for service, the database will notify officers of any S.A.ID. alerts attached to a person involved or the location of the incident via their in-car technology. The S.A.ID. alert is not a label but only an additional resource to allow the officer to best respond to the incident.

The information in a S.A.ID. alert is not public record, will not be entered as part of the call for service record, and will not go out over the emergency response radio system.

“Individuals with autism are seven times more likely to come in contact with first responders.”

“As a parent of an autistic child, my main concern is that he may wander off or have a meltdown while I am not there to assist.”

“It is programs like S.A.ID. that help these common interactions not be traumatic and instead yield a positive outcome.”
